

Graduate Trainee - Fortuna.Bambach

Position Details

Job Title: Graduate Trainee

Location: Enfield, North London

Contract: Initial 6-month paid placement | Competitive Salary

Future Opportunity: Potential permanent role following successful completion of initial 6-month contract | Long-term opportunities in a rapidly growing company

Hours: Full-time (Monday-Friday, with occasional Saturday showroom cover if required)

Join us at Fortuna.Bambach to gain hands-on experience across healthcare, mobility, customer service and business operations.

Introduction

As demand for healthcare, accessibility and independent living solutions continues to grow, this sector is expected to offer strong long-term career prospects and meaningful opportunities for progression.

The work carried out by Fortuna.Bambach relies heavily on real-world problem solving, hands-on technical ability, customer interaction, empathy and professional judgement.

Personal interaction and human skills are required to support customers in their homes, work alongside healthcare professionals, carry out assessments, installations and practical adaptations. Consequently, although emerging technologies will be valuable tools, they cannot easily replicate the work done by real people.

About Fortuna.Bambach

Fortuna.Bambach comprises Fortuna Mobility and Bambach UK providing specialist independent living equipment and adaptation solutions. It operates from a large showroom, warehouse and training centre in Enfield.

The business works closely with customers, healthcare professionals, hospitals, care homes and local authorities to provide tailored solutions that improve independence and quality of life.

About the Role

Key Points:

- The role is fundamentally based on helping people with health and disability needs
- The company is growing extremely rapidly, requiring on-going operational development. we are committed to maintaining this trajectory of progression and development
- We are a private company and need to make a profit, however most profits are re-invested to fund service improvement
- The management structure is relatively flat and a successful candidate will work directly with members of the senior management team
- The role requires complex problem solving, balancing the interplay of:
 - Physical healthcare needs
 - Psychosocial needs
 - Equipment options
 - Efficient allocation of physical resources
 - Making best use of team expertise
 - Finance (our own and that of our clients)

This is a varied and practical graduate office based role designed to provide exposure to multiple areas of the business. You will not be spending two years carrying out one repetitive task over and over, instead every day will contain unique problems that require critical thinking to resolve. The successful candidate will work alongside experienced staff and gain insight into the healthcare, mobility and independent living sector.

They will have the opportunity to develop administrative, operational, customer-facing and problem-solving skills while supporting both office and field-based activities.

The role may particularly suit graduates interested in:

- Healthcare
- Business management
- Occupational therapy environments
- Customer experience
- Operations and logistics
- Medical devices or mobility equipment
- Sales and account management
